EDUCATION

Ph.D. in Philosophy, UC Berkeley — 2020–27 (expected)
Committee: Johann Frick and Jay Wallace (co-chairs), Jan Engelmann (Psychology)
Dissertation: How Others' Values Matter

> We have, it seems, reasons to advance the ends that others value. I argue that these are not entirely derivative of the reasons for others' values—including reasons to promote their welfare. In part, they arise from our relationships with others. Across three chapters, I develop the implications of this idea for the ethics of loving relationships, aggregation, and our treatment of animals.

B.S. in Mathematics and Philosophy, UNC Chapel Hill — 2014–18
